

NEW Model 351X Food Grade Digital Thermometer - by TPI

- / Single button operation with thermistor probe for greater accuracy
- / Ideal for food temperature testing & contact temperature measurements
- / Rugged, Reliable, Accurate and Affordable

The TPI 351X digital thermometer is an easy to use single button contact thermometer. It has high accuracy with its standard bi-pole, thermistor temperature probe.

The TPI 351X thermometer comes complete with a rubber boot and is water resistant (rated IP63). Its large display is easy to read and the unit's battery life is typically around 200 hours. With a temperature range of -40°C to 104°C it is ideal for food temperature testing and food safety use.

The TPI 351X digital thermometer has a range of optional temperature probes for air temperature testing and surface contact temperature testing, along with a standard immersion probe. If fitted with optional test caps the 351X digital thermometer's calibration is easily verified by any user.

Test Products International (TPI) is one of the world's leading designers and manufacturers of digital handheld test equipment, measuring instruments, food safety equipment, digital thermometers, field instruments and digital tools.
